WM. R. PELL, PROPRIETOR.

AUNT GAMALIEL.

A TRUE NARRATIVE.

Candidly, I do not believe in ghosts.—Nevertheless, I had a strange experience connected with my father's death, and my aunt, which might be sufficient excuse for me if I did. But I do not like unhesitatingly to attribute to the supernatural that which is simply beyond my comprehension of the workings of Nature. We know so very little of the ways of Nature at most, and, as the world grows wiser, we find so many appearances, long held to be supernatural, explaining themselves by natural laws, that it seems like presumptive egotism to say, this or that is past Nature's explaining, when it is only past mine. I have an idea that all authentic ghost stories consist of incidents not in themselves unnatural in the proportion of one part, and of deductions wrongly made from those incidents, under the mistaken idea of their being supernatural, in the proportion of two parts. For this reason, I prefer relating the exact incidents of my experience without any ghostly deductions therefrom.

When I was a girl of eighteen, a merry young Jewess, proud of my good looks, I went to London to pay a visit to my aunt, Mrs. Gamaliel. She was a cross old thing, my aunt, and always wore a morose looking stuff dress of dark brown, which matched her humor. Her heavy influence seemed to brood over me, as if she were mentally sitting on me (and she was a heavy woman, mentally and bodily, too.) She kept my spirits down. She ponderously oppressed my mind. She looked upon me as a "grig" of a girl, because I was lively and cheerful, and always upbraided me with being flippant. If I am flippant still, it is a good deal owing to the rigidness with which my aunt endeavored to weed out from my mind every disposition not in accordance with her own. I cultivated the weed in my mind to annoy her when she would fain have rooted up weeds and flowers indiscriminately.

I had left my father at home in Chilminster in good health—that is to say, for him, as for years he had been obliged to keep very quiet, on account of an affection of the heart, which, the doctor said, might at any time suddenly prove fatal, or might not interfere with his attaining the prescribed years of threescore and ten. There was nothing in his state whatever to alarm me when I left, and the accounts I received of his health since my stay in London had been continually favorable.

I had remained over two months in London; my visit was drawing to a close and I was looking forward to returning home as a pleasurable relief from my aunt. My bedroom was on the first floor. I entered it one Tuesday night without the least disposition to gloomy foreboding of any kind, and went to bed in my usual cheerfulness.—[illegible] a shade of regret passed through my mind, it was, at most, because a very nice young fellow I had flirted with at the last ball I attended, had not a penny to bless himself with. Not that this affected me much, for I laughed to myself the next minute, and thought how he ought to bless me for snubbing him as I did—for if I was a giddy, thoughtless girl then, neither fitted nor desirous to settle down into matrimony, I believe I had sufficient sense to know it. I mention how trivial were my thoughts, to show that I was not, that night, either dull or desponding in mind, or predisposed to nervous fancies. I went to sleep happy enough.

I woke in the night—not in that dreamy way in which one often wakes, and becomes half conscious, to turn round again and close one's eyes on the vision, part of this world, part of dreamland, that is before them, but suddenly and broad awake. I could not tell what it was that woke me.—Listening, I heard no sound. I then became aware of a light in my room glowing at the foot of my bed. It had been there when I awoke, but I had taken no notice of it, thinking it caused by the lamp light from the street; but I remembered there was no light near us which could cause such a reflection. Nor was it such a light as could be cast by a lamp. Brightest in the centre, though even there faint and dispersed, its edges shaded into the darkness. The one peculiarity about it was its appearing to be suspended in the air.

I am by no means timid. Throwing a shawl round me, I got out of bed and raised the blind. The night was dark, and the distant lamps, burning blearedi and sickly on the palpable brown air, could not cast such a light into a room. Turning round I saw the light still between me and the bed, glowing in mid air, self sustained as though it originated in the room. As I approached, it moved. It floated towards the door. I followed. Opening the door, I pursued it along the passage, and up the stairs, and along the landing above, the light meanwhile decreasing in volume, but increasing in brightness. It went higher; I followed still, up the attic staircase to an empty, neglected room at the top of the house, where, glowing smaller and brighter, as it were to a single tongue of flame at last, it flickered upwards and died out in black darkness. Groping my way down stairs to my room, I found it dark again. I struck a match and lit my candle. I was not frightened at what I had seen, but in spite of myself the tears formed unbidden in my eyes, and rolled down hot and heavy upon my hands, as I strove to keep them back.—I cannot tell why, but I felt my father was dead. I wrote that very night to my sister. "My darling sister," I said, "is it true that my dear father died at three o'clock this morning?"

This was the first time I had seen the light.

It is difficult to explain to myself any sufficient reason for associating the appearance of this light, which went out in the upper room, with my father's death. I can only mention, as a co incidence, that we Jews burn a lamp, day and night, in the chamber of the dead, and that we consider the flame of it symbolizes the soul, the wick the body, and the oil the earthy matter when by the body is sustained. But I felt as certain of my father's death as of my own existence.

I dressed myself and sat in my room, or walked restlessly about till daybreak, and then went out into the keen morning air and posted my letter.

That same morning my brother came up from Chilminster to fetch my aunt and me to the funeral. My father had died at the hour I saw the light—too suddenly to allow the customary prayer of "Yig dol" to be said, which is with us usually so offered that, as near as may be, with its last expression, "The Eternal is one," that portion of His breath which He has lent shall be returned into His Essence.

On reaching home, I found my dear father laid out, after our manner, upon clean straw upon the floor, with his feet towards the chamber door, and the oil lamp burning beside him. My aunt proposed that we should relieve the two watchers, whose business it was to remain with the dead. I willingly agreed, glad, at least, to be near him whom our rites forbid us to kiss, lest he be polluted, or to weep over, lest our tears disturb his rest.

I remember that dreary chamber as the twilight came on and the lamp flickered uncertainly into the gathering shadow. My aunt, tired with her journey, and plethoric of habit, had dozed off into a kind of wakiful slumber, whilst I, tearfully wakeful, could not take my eyes from the dead form of my father lying there, sharply defined beneath the sheet which covered all but his face. As I watched him—my imagination disordered by the events of the last twenty-four hours—I thought the dead [illegible] as though jointed in the centre, stiffly raised [illegible] into a sitting posture and opened its eyes, the sole living thing about it, which fixed upon mine and burned into my brain like coals of fire, till I thought I saw again in their glory the intensified light that had disappeared in the lonely top room of my aunt's house. Though I knew perfectly well it was only the morbid working of my own fevered imagination, I was none the less terrified on that account. I was obliged to cry aloud to break the spell. I did so, waking my aunt, and the dreadful fancy dissolved, so that, looking again to reassure myself, I saw only the quiet dead lying stiff and still beneath the sheet. I had to explain myself to my aunt, which I did partially, when she insisted that there must be on my part some great offence against my father, for which I must needs ask the pardon of the dead, after the common habit of our race.

I knew there was no wilful disobedience of mine to disturb his repose, yet at her bidding I stood at the feet of the dead, and taking hold of each foot said, "Dear father, I do pray thy forgiveness, if I have committed any offence toward thee; pray forgive me."

Here the watchers relieved us, and we went down stairs to "sit Shiva," as is termed our sitting for seven days on cushions on the floor during the week of mourning.

The funeral took place next day; one of the eight fringes was duly broken from his breast-cloth, and my dear father was buried with soil from the Land of Promise beneath his head, and a locked padlock in his grave, of which the key was thrown away (to prevent further mortality in the family,) and "Caddish" being said the mourners returned to us with their clothes rent, which we call "Kreesh."

Our funeral rites being little known, I must explain that whilst sitting Shiva, we have nothing to do but listen to the prayers which are said, night and morning, during the seven days, and receive the visits of friends. Every Jew in the neighborhood [illegible] comes in to pray with us. Most of them will bring some kind of cooked food, as we are forbidden to attend to domestic duties at such times. It must not be thought that our visitors come to mourn and to condole with us in Gentile fashion. On the contrary, considering it breach of decorum to make any reference whatever either to the dead or to the nature of the bereavement we have suffered, they try to divert our minds from the loss, by discoursing on every foreign topic they can think of, so that these funeral levees frequently assume a cheerful tone that would surprise a Gentile.

Among our visitors was a young gentleman, who affected some partiality for me, and whom I liked about as well as I wished to like any one at that giddy age. It was not my fault if he would sit by me and talk all manner of lively conversation after our fashion. My heart was heavy enough, but sitting from morning till night in enforced company of the kind, one cannot help falling in with it in some sort, if only mechanically. One cannot weep in a crowd. I answered his sallies, and rallied him in turn, possibly. I have no doubt I laughed—that I might not cry. At all events, my aunt, witnessing what took place, stigmatized my proceedings as "scandalous," and said it annoyed her eye sight to see such things.

I retorted thoughtlessly, "that the sooner she lost such a sensitive sight, perhaps the better, for her own peace and of those about her."

"Do you wish me blind, then?" said my aunt, sharply.

I believe the fact of doing violence to one's own feelings, by assuming an artificial cheerfulness when the heart is sad, is not calculated to make one tender of the feelings of others. Annoyed at my aunt's strictures on my acting a part it cost me a good deal to play, and certain of giving way to tears before them all, if I spoke, I merely shrugged my shoulders, and said nothing to dissipate the exaggerated interpretation put upon my words.

"Did you hear your child cursing my sight?" cried my aunt, in a rage to my mother, with whom she had already quarreled on another subject.

"The curse causelessly shall not come," my mother replied quietly.

"What do you mean?" my aunt exclaimed, still more bitterly, "Do you want to imply that there is a cause, and to support your flippant girl in her wickedness?"

My mother, conscious of no such meaning, held her peace.

"I have vowed," continued the angry woman, "never again to set foot in your house, after Shiva is over; but, if the curse does come, your daughter shall be the first to see it."

And my aunt looked at me as uncannily as if she possessed the "Ayin hora," or evil eye.

* * * * *

Some years had elapsed after my father's funeral. My aunt kept her word, and never visited any of us. I was alone one winter evening with my two younger sisters in our sitting room at home. We had finished supper, and had been sitting over the fire chatting until, ordinary subjects of gossip being exhausted, I amused myself by drawing upon my imagination for supernatural stories, and then enjoying the nervous terror they produced on my sisters' minds.—This went on until they had hushed their voices to a whisper, until they looked at each other with white and anxious faces at every sound the wind made as it rattled the casement, or swept up the garden path to shake the tall acacias against the window panes. But it is hard work being noisy-merry by yourself when your companions will not join in your humor. I found the effort very depressing, and though neither timid nor nervous, I must admit my solitary laugh began to sound so artificial that I gave it up, and gradually relapsed into a quieter tone. For some time we had been staring at the fire with nothing to break the silence but the ticking of the clock in the hall.

"Hush, Rachael," said my youngest sister to me, "I hear something in the passage."

"No doubt it is ghosts, my dear," I said, reassuringly, "or the cat, perhaps."

Tap-tap at the door of our room.

"Oh, Rachel, don't mock," they said.—"You don't know what it might be."

"Certainly not, but we will see. Come in," said I cheerfully.

After some minutes of mute expectation, during which no one spoke, I was beginning to rally them again on their fears.

Tap-tap, again at the door. There was no mistake about it.

"Come in," I called louder than before. No one entered.

My sisters were visibly agitated. I lost all patience with them.

"Don't be so silly, children," I said. "I will go to the door and see who it is, if the [illegible] is repeated. It must be some one very [illegible] deaf at a[illegible]

Tap-tap, again, [illegible] quicker than before, as if in impatience.

"Don't go, Rachel," cried my [illegible] sisters' clinging to me.

"Nonsense," I said, throwing open the door, and looking out. No one was there. "Some silly trick," I thought. "It can't be the servant; she has gone to bed, I know."

I walked along the dark passage. It was empty. But as I came to the far end I was aware of something between me and the wall, and I saw faintly, and as it were in a mist, what seemed to be the folds of a stuff dress. I felt them brush past my frock, although I knew there was positively no room for anything to pass between me and the wall I was touching. I tried to grasp the folds, but my hand closed on air, and a long, sighing draught went past me. At the same moment, I had a vague impression of my aunt's presence, which I cannot more definitely describe. Returning to the room, a little pale, perhaps, my sisters eagerly asked—

"Rachel, how white you are. What have you seen?"

"Nothing, girls; only the clock, and that it is nearly twelve, and quite bed time."

So, refusing them any further explanation, I led them up stairs; but they were so nervous I had to make up a bed for them in my room that night.

I have told all I saw with scrupulous exactness. By a very little exaggeration I might have made an approved ghost story of it; but, as I have said, I do not believe in ghosts, and therefore prefer to confine myself to literal truth.

It is a fact that my Aunt Gamaliel was stricken with blindness that night.

I have seen my aunt but once since that time, when I visited her at her own house. She refused my proffered sympathy and genuine condolence. She accused me of having brought her blindness upon herself, vowed that, if permitted, her spirit should trouble me after her death. She is living still, and will not allow her mind to be disabused of the idea that I have blighted her sight. So that there is a prospect before me of seeing a real ghost one of these days. If I do, I will let you know.

STATE AGRICULTURAL OR CO-OPERATION SOCIETY.

We have, on several occasions of late, urged upon the people of the State, the necessity and the utility of forming County Associations and neighborhood Clubs, in order to the formation of an efficient State Association, for the promotion of the interests of the farmer, the mechanic, the merchant and the manufacturer—indeed of all the industrial interests of the State.

Our condition, arising from the wasted resources of the people, their unfortunate, heavy indebtedness, and the crushing weight of our political affairs, as the result of unfriendly and Radical legislation, renders it absolutely necessary, that, yielding all due obedience "to the powers that be," and seeking a redress of our political grievances by the legitimate means, though meagre, still left in our hands, we should take hold of every available agency within our reach and strike out such new schemes of policy in our industrial management, as will better our pecuniary and economical condition.

Our old plans of agriculture, &c., and our old prejudices in favor of or against this or that, must be abandoned, if found not to hold good in our present condition, and we must seize hold with a vim of any new idea or proposition which promises to relieve our condition. Instead of repining at our lot, and complaining of the past or of the present, we must determine to take things as we find them, and make them contribute to the promotion of our interests.

It must be evident to every observer, that, in the entire change of circumstances under which we are placed, there must be a corresponding change in our plans of operation. Hence, the times demand the reduction of our large farms and their cultivation must become more scientific and more skillful. Labor must be systematized and educated, and it must be rewarded according to its intrinsic value. If the labor among us cannot be made subservient to the great objects of progress, new labor must be obtained, and the necessary encouragement given for its introduction and its profitable employment.

The industrial pursuits of the country, whether farming, planting, horticulture, wine making, mechanical enterprise, or mercantile or manufacturing employments, must call in the aids of science and experience; if they would be put upon more elevated grounds, they require greater skill and higher instruction, in order to make labor taught that the vocation in the church, the mechanic, the merchant or the manufacturer, in itself, is as respectable and as honorable as any other profession. This can only be done by so raising the standard of intelligent labor in all the vocations as to make every man feel that, socially, morally and intellectually, he stands upon his own merits, and that his position in society depends upon his intelligence and deportment, and not upon the vocation by which he feeds himself and family.

To effect these objects, the people of the State must take hold of the industrial and educational interests of the State with a strong hand and control them. The most approved and most intelligent systems of education, of agriculture, horticulture, mechanism, manufacturing and commerce, must be introduced among us,—wise and judicious immigration schemes must be inaugurated,—papers and tracts must be issued and circulated for the instruction of the million in all these matters, and our plans of education must have more direct reference to the industrial agencies of the country.

How can these ends be accomplished most efficiently? Individual efforts, unless combined, can accomplish little. We need a great State Association, with an auxiliary in every County and every neighborhood, combining the energy, intelligence and worth of the State, to direct and control this matter. But little money, if our efforts are thus combined, will be needed.

A State Association must direct and control our emigration schemes. By the aid of its County and neighborhood agencies, it can easily ascertain how much and what kind of labor is needed in any particular locality. Intelligence, enterprise and experience will solve every difficulty and evolve every remedy needed to instruct (and aid) our people in prosecuting the highest skill either in the culture of the soil, or in mechanics, &c. This State Association, having supervision and control of these matters, can effect much more cheaply and efficiently all these aims and ends, than can be effected by individual and County efforts.

We respectfully invite our brethren of the press in the State to elaborate these ideas and urge upon our people early attention to them. Our people must move, and that early, if we would ever recover from our prostration.

HEATON vs. ABBOTT.—The Newbern Journal of Commerce says that so certain are Col. Heaton's friends of his success, in the Senatorial scrub race, that they think of calling a District Convention to nominate a candidate for Congress in his District. R. F. Lehman (a Yankee, of course,) is spoken of as the nominee. Go it, Ohio! Lay on, New Hampshire!

—"We don't care a toss-up, Whether Mossup beat Barry, or Barry beat Mossup!"

Where is the "enthusiasm" which Hiram U. Grant was to excite all over the country? Was it manifest at West Point? Grant has been through New York twice within a week, and his transit either way, to or from the Point, was absolutely unnoticed.

REMOVING DISABILITIES.

The Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, speaking of the bill, removing the disabilities from a number of citizens of North Carolina, (including "Governor elect" Holden,) South Carolina, Alabama, &c., says:

"A glance over the list shows that the most of those who are in this bill were original secessionists, many of them among the most bitter opponents of the government during the war. They are all full-blooded rebels now, of course, and hence this clemency on the part of the radical majority. Out of the whole list there are but two who are not now in full communion with Congress."

And these two have now been stricken from the list by the Senate! There never was in any age of any country, a more villanous exhibition of party malignity,—a more shameless instance of corrupt and malevolent partyism. It is in entire keeping with Radicalism, however, and no one is surprised, though the whole country will be inexpressibly disgusted.

We have not a particle of doubt that the statement of the correspondent of the Sun is entirely correct. So far as the list from this State is concerned, we are certain that a large majority of those whom it embraces were, at one time, the most blatant "Yankee exterminators" and "Union-despisers" we had in North Carolina. The list includes some, even, who voted against that very Howard amendment, in the Legislature, from the disabilities imposed by which they are to be "relieved," and numbers who voted against even allowing the negroes to give evidence in the Courts of Justice!

All that is necessary for a man to secure the favor of Congress, is to abjure his convictions, before his conscience, prostitute his self respect and eat dirt ad nauseam.

Let those who will, do these things. We rejoice to believe that no true son of North Carolina has gone on his knees to the malignant corruptionists, and asked any favors at their hands.

"Let us have peace, says Grant, the Radical nominee for the Presidency. "Let us have more peace," say his Radical adherents and supporters. The comment illustrates the text. What is meant by Peace is the crushing out of Southern manhood, intelligence and worth beneath the black hoof of an ignorant, depraved and semi-barbarous supremacy—the very peace, so to speak, of the grave. All of this will be changed, one of these days. Let true men hold to their faith and their honor!

THE EDITORIAL CONVENTION.—The conference of the Conservative Editors of the State adjourned on Thursday night, after an exceedingly agreeable session. The proceedings will be found elsewhere, though it has not been thought necessary to embody in the report many matters which were had under constitution and which were fully discussed. There was no discord or disagreement in the deliberations of the body. All of the very intelligent and patriotic gentlemen present were actuated by a sincere desire to elevate the character of the profession, contribute to the éclat of the country, its actions, time honored, Constitutional and manly. Our only regret is that so many of our worthy brethren were compelled to be absent.

The suggestion, embodied in one of the resolutions, relative to the publication of an address, by the Southern delegations, at N. Y., to the people of the North, setting forth the true condition of affairs at the South, present and prospective, resulting from military despotism and malignant Radical legislation, is a most timely and admirable one. Such a document, full and circumstantial, and couched in plain, vigorous and forcible terms, could not fail to produce a profound impression.

The members of the Press present avowed their intention to advocate earnestly and constantly the cause of Immigration, and of Industrial progress, in all its branches, and all other measures tending to the promotion of the material interests of the State, as one of the chief means of extricating our people from existing difficulties and dangers.

We are gratified that this conference has been had, and that it has developed such unanimity of sentiment upon all matters, professional and political. The Press is a power in this land, and its conductors owe it to themselves, by co-operation and fraternity, wherever possible, to assert its prerogatives and to maintain the standard of an elevated calling.

SOUTH CAROLINA.—Much surprise has been occasioned by a reported gain to the Democratic party in South Carolina, of 14,000 at the recent county elections. The New York World gives a pretty fair explanation of this, and incidentally expresses an opinion as to the fairness of reconstruction elections which few respectable people in the South will differ from: "The secret is that at these county elections Congress had nothing particularly at stake, and the returns were not, therefore, manipulated to suit. With carpet-bag candidates to act as judges of election, and servile tools at headquarters, who would report that two and two made an hundred, if so ordered from Washington, the very thought of an election in any of the Southern States is a farce, and it is our firm belief, for which we have good reason, there has not been from the beginning to the end of this reconstruction business one single fair count of the ballots."—Rich. Dispatch.

SAMBO AT THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.—Having made Washington a negro settlement, some of the Radical leaders are becoming disgusted, and want to remove the National Capital to a white country. Sambo is becoming troublesome. He not only claims all the privileges of the Capital, but he unceremoniously intrudes upon the privacy of the white Radicals. He is a nuisance from which they would gladly escape. They must be patient, for he is not half done with them. He will yet make them smoke.—They have established negro supremacy in Washington and we want them to feel it, and suffer from it to the full extent.—Rich. Whig.

THE Richmond Whig says that if the people of the North do not put an end to Radical usurpation, they will be as truly conquered and enslaved as the South now is, with this exception—that the South fought to avert its fate, and the North will have tamely accepted theirs.

EDITORIAL CONVENTION.

In pursuance of a previous understanding, a portion of the Democratic and Conservative Editors of North Carolina met in conference, at Raleigh, on Thursday afternoon, the 18th, inst.

The following representatives of the Press were in attendance, viz:

Hon. Lewis Hanes, Watchman and Old North State;

Major J. A. Engelhard, Wilmington Journal;

Capt. Wm Biggs, Tarboro Southerner;

Capt. R. A. Shotwell, Western Vindicator;

Capt. R. P. Waring, Charlotte Times;

J. W. Albright, Esq., Greensboro Patriot and Times;

Jno. B. Robinson, Esq., Goldsboro Tough Notes;

Jordan Stone, Esq., Roanoke News;

R. M. Furman, Esq., Henderson Index;

Rev. William E. Pell, } Raleigh Sentinel.
Maj. Seaton Gales, }

On motion of Capt. Waring, of the Charlotte Times, Rev. W. E. Pell, of the Sentinel, was called to preside over the meeting, and Capt. Wm. Biggs, of the Southerner, was requested to act as Secretary.

The Chairman explained the objects and purposes of the Convention.

After a protracted, full and harmonious interchange of views, upon various topics, political and professional, the following gentlemen were appointed a Committee to report business for the consideration of the Convention, viz: Messrs. Hanes, Engelhard, Waring, Stone and Gales.

Letters were read from Messrs. E. B. Drake & Son, of the Statesville American, and J. H. Bennett, Esq., of the Warrenton Courier, expressing regret at their inability to participate in the deliberations of their brethren of the Press, and submitting various suggestions for their consideration.

A communication was read from J. Golden Wyatt, Esq., the Proprietor of the "Sparkling Catawba" Springs, inviting the members of the Convention, on their adjournment, to become, for a few days, his guests at that delightful Summer resort.

A verbal communication from Maj J. M. Blair, of the Yarborough House, was received, inviting the members of the Convention to dine with him at his Hotel, tomorrow.

The Convention then took a recess until 8 o'clock, P. M.

NIGHT SESSION.

The Committee, appointed in the morning to prepare resolutions for the consideration of the body, reported the following, which were adopted unanimously, viz:

We, a portion of the conductors of the Democratic and Conservative Press of the State of North Carolina, in conference assembled, after a cordial and thorough interchange of opinions, have deemed it proper to embody, in the following resolutions, our views in the present exigency of affairs:

1. Resolved, That we hereby pledge our earnest and zealous support to the nominees, for the offices of President and Vice President of the United States, of the National Democratic Convention, which is to assemble in the City of New York, on the 4th of July next.

2. Resolved, That we hereby take the liberty of suggesting to the delegation from North Carolina, in that Convention, the propriety of counselling with the other delegations from the South, as to the necessity of issuing, then and there, an address to the people of the North, setting forth, in a strong and proper light, the existing condition of affairs in the South growing out of Radical legislation; that we believe this to be the more indispensable, because to the sense of justice, patriotism and love of constitutional liberty of the Northern masses, do we look for redemption from the grievous evils under which our people labor.

3. Resolved, That we hereby instruct the President of this meeting to appoint two representatives of the Press, (with alternates,) to attend the National Convention aforesaid, for the purpose of conveying our sentiments, as expressed in private interchange of opinions, and in these resolutions, to the delegation from this State.

4. Resolved, That we hereby pledge to each other our unremitting and cordial labors to sustain the cherished objects we have at heart; and do not hesitate to express the conviction that, by proper and united effort, the State can be carried, in the Fall elections, in the interests of Constitutional Government.

On motion of Mr. Furman, of the Henderson Index, the following resolution, after some discussion, was adopted, viz:

Resolved, That we recommend to the Press of the State, the adoption of the cash system in regard to Court advertisements, and a strict adherence to their regular rates of advertising, as published,—a deviation from which will be deemed unprofessional.

Maj. Gales, of the Sentinel, submitted the following, which was also adopted, viz:

Resolved, That we discountenance the practice of receiving, indiscriminately, advertisements through the medium of Northern advertising agencies and would recommend the rejection of such, unaccompanied by payment in advance, as do not emanate from well-known and entirely reliable sources of this character, and such as do not fully correspond with established rates.

The President designated, in conformity with the third resolution of the series reported from the Committee, Capt. R. P. Waring, of the Charlotte Times, and Maj. Seaton Gales, of the Sentinel, as delegates to New York, with Hon. Lewis Hanes, of the Watchman and Old North State, and Capt. Wm. Biggs, of the Southerner, as alternates.

A long, frank and pleasant discussion here ensued upon various points,—even an abstract of which it is not necessary to incorporate in this report. It may be sufficient to state, that an earnest desire and purpose were expressed to co-operate with each other and with the people in the encouragement of immigration and the promotion of the Agricultural and other industrial interests of the State.

On motion, the thanks of the Convention were tendered to Mr. Wyatt, of the "Sparkling Catawba," for his generous invitation to the members of the Press; and

On further motion of Mr. Furman, the cordial appreciation of the Convention was tendered to Mr. Blair, of the Yarborough, for the numerous and hospitable courtesies extended by him. And then,

On motion, the Convention adjourned sine die.

WM. BIGGS, Secretary.
WM. E. PELL, President.

ÆTNA LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY, OF HARTFORD, CONN.

ASSETS, $9,000,000.

No. POLICIES 52,700.
DIVISIBLE SURPLUS $1,884,768,51.
DIVIDENDS 50 per cent.

In these days of competition between Life Insurance Companies, each is said by rival Agents, each claiming the Company he represents to be the best. Without saying anything in disparagement of any Company, or, by simple assertion, anything in its favor, the ÆTNA begs leave to refer to the annexed table, compiled from the official and sworn statements of twenty of the largest Companies in America, made to the Insurance Commissioners of the State of New York. The table shows the ratio of expenses to each $100 received by each Company, for the three years ending January 1, 1868.

It will be seen that the expenses of the ÆTNA are much lower than any other Company; and, after the average is struck, the ÆTNA, in 1865, saved $10.41 out of each $100 received more than the average; in 1866, $7.19, and in 1867, $4.90. The receipts of the ÆTNA were, in 1865, $1,655,309; in 1866, $3,522,376, and in 1867, $5,129,447. Consequently, its savings in the three years were $677,309 39, to which add 7 per cent. interest to July 1, 1868: $120,287.64, making a grand total of $797,597 03 saved over the average of all other Companies.

This is the measure of success, as applied by the Hon Elizur Wright, the greatest of American actuaries, to all Companies, and simply means that the Company whose RATIO of expense to its income is the least, is the best able to pay large dividends to its policy holders. That the ÆTNA is THAT Company, these comparisons of official statements plainly show.

Official Statement showing the Expenses and Losses by the Twenty Largest Insurance Companies in America.

MILITARY.—We observe that Bvt. Lieut. Col. G. A. Williams, of the 6th U. S. Infantry, has been relieved from duty as Provost Marshal General of the Second Military District, and ordered to this City, where part of his regiment is now stationed.

TAXES! TAXES!—As an item of information, we state to our readers that the Collector of U. S. revenue is at his office, with assessments all made out, ready to receipt to all who are ready to pay. Don't delay, as the damages are as bad as the tax.

THANKS.—The Editors, recently in conference in this City, were the recipients of so many courtesies at the hands of Mr. Blair, of the Yarborough House, that they hardly know how to go about thanking him. Besides an invitation to an Editorial dinner, which their engagement compelled some of them to decline, he regaled them very handsomely in his Hotel parlors, on Thursday night, which were thrown open for the session of the body.

Mr. Wyatt, of the "Sparkling Catawba," too, has many thanks for the polite invitation to his delightful watering place. If our brother "chips" regretted their inability to accept as much as we did, they are a "sorry" set, in that sense only, for, other wise, they are made of the true material, certain.

DAVIDSON COLLEGE.—The 30th Annual Commencement will be held on Thursday, the 16th of July. The exercises of Commencement week will be as follows:

July 9, 10, 13.—Examination of the classes.

Sunday, 12*th*.—Baccalaureate Sermon, by President McPhail.

Tuesday, 14*th*.—MEETING OF BOARD OF TRUSTEES.

Wednesday, 15*th*.—11 A. M., Annual Sermon before the Williams Association of Inquiry, by the Rev. Dr. George Howe, of the Columbia Theol. Sem.

3 P. M.—Oration before the Literary Societies, by the Rev. Dr. R. L. Dabney, of Union Theol. Sem.

7 P. M.—Speeches by the representatives of the Societies.

Thursday, 16*th*.—Orations by Junior and Senior classes, and conferring of degrees.

The public are invited to attend, and an unusually interesting time may be expected. The literary exercises, independently of other attractions, will be of the highest order.

AMES' CIRCUS.—This mammoth concern has been exhibiting in some of our Western towns within the past week. It exhibits in this city on Monday. The Charlotte Times says of it:

"AMES' Circus exhibited in this city yesterday, to a large and appreciative audience, fully sustaining the good opinions expressed by the press in other places. The performers are all of the first order; but without desiring to be invidious, we must nevertheless say that the Clown, Johnny Lawton, has no superior in his line, and well deserved the frequent plaudits of the audience. Witty, without coarseness, humorous without a word to cause a blush, is the Clown's highest praise—and such as one is Lawton.

We might speak of Herr Lengel and M. M. Eila Eugenie, and others equally meritorious, but space forbids.

We commend this company to the favor of the press every where."

THE APPLE PROBLEM.—A correspondent sends us an ingenious solution of the apple problem, published in the Sentinel, on yesterday. It shall appear in our next.

A Southern paper having seen the name of Gen. Dix mentioned as a possible Presidential candidate, asks doubtfully whether he would be Dixie enough for that section.

IN ANOTHER column will be found the notice of Mr. Stagg, Secretary of the N. C. R. R. Co., calling upon the Stockholders to meet on the 9th day of July. The meeting is not forbidden by General Canby, though, it is generally reported, the order forbidding an election was made at the suggestion of Gov. Holden. It sounds very much like him.

It is important that the Stockholders should meet. We are informed that the Company, lately organized to construct a Road from Salem, via Greensboro', would like to have permission to run their cars for two or three miles on the N. C. Road.

When men obey orders not to take care of their property, they should not be called "rebellious."

THE GEORGIA MURDER AND MILITARY ARREST—Attempt to Coerce Witnesses.—Some time ago a man named Ashburn was killed in a negro house of ill-fame in Columbus, Georgia, and, being an extreme zealot in radicalism, it suited the purposes of the reckless organs of that party to ascribe his death to members of the Conservative party in Columbus, although it was the prevalent opinion in that city, founded upon the violent and overbearing temper of the deceased, and differences known to exist between him and many of his political associates, that he had been killed by members of his own party. Well-known personal enemies of Ashburn, one of whom had been heard to make a threat against his life on the Saturday previous to his death, were in the house at the time of the killing, and shortly before. One of these left the city soon afterwards and went to parts unknown.—One man, a member of the Reconstruction Convention, and also a member elect to the Legislature of Georgia, it is alleged, stated that he knew the killing was to take place on the night it did, and that he left town beforehand. Considering these facts, or looking at the possibility that a man leading an infamous life, and perishing in such a place, might be the victim of some of his own evil associates, there would be some caution, in a country governed by law, in making arrests of men of known good character, and if arrested, they would have all the safeguards which the law throws around the accused to shield them from falsehood and injustice. But military courts, institutions which, Mr. Webster said, "are always organized to convict," have a different mode of procedure. Four respectable young men of Columbus, who have occupied prominent positions in the Democratic organization of Columbus, and two colored men identified with that party, were arrested, and are confined in military barracks, apart from each other, denied communication with friends, save under military surveillance, and not even permitted to confer with counsel as to their defense. They are now about to be tried by military commission for their lives. What the evidence is to be upon which they are to be convicted may be inferred from the methods which some of the military officers have been employing in the examination of witnesses, as set forth in the affidavits of some of the witnesses, the substance of which we give below:

"Sandy Nelson, colored man, testified that he was arrested at Columbus, July 1, and delivered over to Captain Wills, commanding post, with whom were three other United States officers. After being interrogated in vain as to any facts implicating Mr. Grimes, one of the accused, with whom he lived, deponent states as follows:

He was kept in a guard-room under the court house all that night, and with nothing to eat; that on Tuesday Captain Wills and the same three officers visited him in his cell, and propounded substantially the same queries as before, with same result as before. This was about 10 A. M. They left him again; he was locked up, and kept there without one mouthful of food, and none was offered him by the guards. An old negro woman named Mary brought him some food, but it was not allowed him by the soldiers. That he was so guarded and kept till Thursday morning, when Captain Wills came again to see him, and asked about the same questions, with results as above, and as he was about to leave, deponent asked leave to go to see his sister, Nancy Nelson; he was allowed to go, under promise of returning again that afternoon. He went and reported back at about 5 P. M of the same day. The food he got at his sister's was the first and only he received during his said confinement from June 1 to 4. That he was again questioned by Wills same as before—same result—when Wills said "he would have the truth out of him;" again he was put in guard house, where he stayed till Friday morning, 5th instant, at about 7 A. M., when he was released.—Wills saying, "Mr. Nelson, you may go; I believe you are an honest man."

Abner Griffin, another colored man, deposed that he was examined in like manner, and asked what time Dr. Kirbey, one of the accused, came home on the night of the murder of George W. Ashburn, and he replied between seven and eight, and that then one of the officers called him a d—d liar, and said they would send him to Fort Pulaski with a shaved head and a ball and chain on him; that he was greatly frightened, and in exceeding fear of his life. Deponent testified that he got the Doctor's horse the next morning; did not notice anything different about the horse; the harness and buggy were in their place, where they had been put by deponent the night before; and that he was not then allowed to go out the room; he was kept there all day, and before leaving he was again called in and asked the same questions over again, to which he gave the same answers; he was then told he might go, if he would be at his place when they sent for him again.

Clara Brooks, a colored girl, ten or twelve years of age, testified to being questioned under threats by the officers, and Charlotte Hall, a colored woman employed as servant in the house in which Grimes lived, states that having been subjected to long and severe examinations, and cursed and threatened by the officers, and adds:

"Just before leaving, one of the officers told me I was lying all round, and that I would rather rot in the fort for three or for six years than to tell the truth on my damned Democratic friends; that I might as well tell the truth, for Frederick (a Frenchman who waited on Mr. Wright) had told all about it, and that when I went to Atlanta and met Frederick that he would catch me in a lie. One of the officers then took a piece of rope and put it under my chin, and said that when they got me to Fort Pulaski they would do me that way, until I told the truth on my Democratic friends. Was re-imprisoned, taken out again, and re-examined in the same way."

Cicero Johnson, colored man, had several long and severe examinations, and was repeatedly cursed and threatened; was put in prison without food, bedding or lights, and was taken out from time to time and examined and re-imprisoned; one of the officers said to me, "We are tired of your lying, and will have to send you to Fort Pulaski, where you will have your head shaved and wear a ball and chain." The same officer asked me if I knew how long I would be alive; was accused of being a Democratic negro, and was questioned as to my reasons for quitting the Loyal Leagues."

When military inquisitors seek to implicate, by such means of getting testimony, such men as the accused in this case, it is clear that under such a despotism as is now established in the South, no man's life or liberty is secure.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT TO HON. JNO. A. GILMER.

THE Committee, appointed by the Board of Trustees of Trinity College, to express the sense of the Board, of which he was a member, relative to the death of Hon. JNO. A. GILMER, submit the following:

The duty we perform is a sad one. All who knew Mr. Gilmer respected and honored him, for the high qualities of his head and heart. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church—had, though, none of the spirit of bigotry or sectarianism. This Institution had no better friend, particularly in its early struggles for an existence. It affords us great satisfaction to use this occasion to express our high appreciation of his efforts in behalf of our Church (Methodist) educational enterprises. He joined the founders of Greensboro Female College to build up and foster that Institution, stood by her in her storms, with his means and his influence, and rejoiced with her in the sunshine of her prosperity. He was a noble spirit, generous, liberal, magnanimous. As long as Trinity College lives and her sons survive, his memory will be perpetuated and kept alive.

While we make public expression of our own grief, on account of his death, as a Board of Trustees, we offer to his bereaved family our warmest sympathy and condolence. We recommend that this report be spread upon our journal, and a copy of it be transmitted to his family, and that a copy be also furnished the press for publication.

General McClellan has written a letter from Europe to General Hancock, stating that he will arrive in this country in August next, and that he will not let his name be used in connection with the Presidency.—He cordially endorses Gen. H., or any other good man who may be selected at the July Convention, in opposition to the Radical nominations, and will take the stump in their behalf.

Grant, it is announced, is going to Colorado, not on business, but for his health, which Washington water, etc., etc., has somewhat seriously impaired. Perhaps he will extend his trip to Oregon, where the people have recently responded unmistakably to his nomination on the Chicago ticket. No doubt Grant would be accorded a fitting reception in Oregon. "The colored troops fought nobly."—World.

ANOTHER OUTRAGE.—The House Committee of Elections have agreed to report in favor of the admission of Samuel McKee, who was defeated by over 1,200 majority. His successful competitor, Hon. John D. Young, was denied admission to his seat because, in the opinion of the majority of the Committee, he was not "trooly loil."

AN ARMY OFFICER SHOT.—Bowling Green Ky., June 16.—In a street altercation at Russellville, Tenn., this morning, Colonel McCarty, an ex Confederate officer, shot Major Lawrence, of the United States army, commanding there, three times, one of the shots proving fatal. Major Lawrence shot McCarty in the leg.

June 2 LAND OWNERS.

HAVING BEEN APPOINTED, BY THE ATLANTIC AGRICULTURAL AND MINERAL LAND COMPANY, Agent for all that part of North Carolina lying east of and including Catawba County, I am authorized to say, to any person or persons having 2,000 acres in one body, partially cleared and near a Rail Road, that if they will subdivide their lands the Company will purchase alternate lots at their assessed value for taxation or as ascertained by two disinterested parties, paying for the same in the Company's stock—the Company obligating itself to place a white settler on every 200 acres, as acquired, within three years, or, failing to do so, such land unsettled to revert to the original owner; the owner to retain possession until the land is settled.

The object of this system is to bring into the State an industrious and thrifty population and to enhance the value of our lands. It has been adopted in other States and is said to be working finely.

This Company was chartered by our Legislature of 1866. Land owners will please address me for particulars at Reidsville, N. C.

CONGRESS—DEFEAT OF THE DISABILITY BILL IN THE HOUSE—WHERE'S THE "GOVERNOR ELECT?"

WASHINGTON, June 19, P. M.

SENATE:—A bill was introduced transferring the control of Indians to the Freedmen's Bureau.

The vote rejecting the bill relieving exporters of distilled rum was reconsidered and the bill passed.

Pacific railroad matters were discussed all day. Adjourned.

HOUSE:—The bill regulating the carrying of passengers by steam vessels passed,—without a division.

The Conference Committee's report on the bill relieving political disabilities was defeated,—yeas 78, nays 55.

Not two thirds!

The Democrats, on account of the erasure of the two Democrats from the list, joined the Republicans, who oppose pardon entirely.

This result produced much dissatisfaction.

The Republicans made an appeal that without this bill, Congressional reconstruction would be a failure, and untold evils would result.

Brroomall, who changed his vote for the purpose, moved a re-consideration, which prevailed, and the question comes up again on Monday.

The Senate amendment to the Bill continuing the Freedmen's Bureau was adopted.

FROM WASHINGTON—JUDGE CHASE AND THE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION, &C.

WASHINGTON, June 19, P. M.

The Express says: "It is reported on good authority, that Judge Chase has written a letter to be read in the Democratic National Convention, placing himself squarely on any platform that the Convention may determine, but urging that negro suffrage be recognized and universal amnesty demanded."

Private advices from Atlanta, Ga., represent that the Columbus prisoners are treated with increased rigor.

The House Judiciary Committee contemplate bringing the matter before the House, on Monday.

The Star announces, positively, Secretary McCulloch's resignation.

The defeat of the Relief bill in the House, today, created an intense flutter. It is likely it will pass on Monday, though the Democrats will vote solidly against it, unless Houston of Alabama, and Jones, of Tennessee, are restored.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE

OFFICIAL HISTORY OF THE WAR,

ITS CAUSES, CHARACTER, CONDUCT AND RESULTS.

By HON. ALEXANDER H. STEPHENS.

A BOOK FOR ALL SECTIONS AND ALL PARTIES.

THIS GREAT WORK PRESENTS THE ONLY complete and impartial analysis of the causes of the War yet published, and gives those interior lights and shadows of the great conflict only known to those high officers who watched the flood-tide of revolution from its fountain springs, and which were so accessible to Mr. Stephens, from his position as second officer of the Confederacy.

To a public that has been surfeited with APPARENTLY SIMILAR PRODUCTIONS, we promise a change of fare, both agreeable and salutary, and an intellectual treat of the highest order. The Great American War has AT LAST found a historian worthy of its importance, and at whose hands it will receive that moderate, candid and impartial treatment which truth and justice so urgently demand.

The intense desire everywhere manifested to obtain this work, its official character and ready sale, combined with an increased commission, make it the best subscription book ever published.

The supremacy of the civil over the military, in time of peace;

The equality of the three co-ordinate branches of the government;

The sovereignty of the States over their own internal affairs, in strict conformity to the Constitution;

The maintenance of freedom and justice to all, without distinction of color, but the supremacy of the white race as the governing class;

Opposition to Radicalism in all its phases.

As a NEWS journal, it shall be equal to any.

The principal markets will be regularly published.

Its LITERARY character shall be maintained and improved, by contributions from our best writers.

GENERAL REMARKS.

Revenue stamps may be used indiscriminately upon any of the matters or things enumerated in schedule B., except proprietary and playing card stamps, for which a special use has been provided.

Postage stamps cannot be used in payment of the duty chargeable on instruments.

It is the duty of the maker of an instrument to affix and cancel the stamp thereon. If he neglects to do so, the party for whom it is made, may stamp it before it is used; and if used after the 30th of July, 1864, and used without a stamp, it cannot afterwards be effectually stamped. Any failure upon the part of the maker of an instrument to appropriately stamp it, renders him liable to a penalty of two hundred dollars.

Suits are commenced in many States by other process than writ, viz: summons, warrants, publication, &c., in which case these, as the original process, severally require stamps.

Writs of scire facias are subject to stamp duty as original process.

The jurat of an affidavit, taken before a Justice of the Peace, Notary Public, or other officer duly authorized to take affidavits, is held to be a certificate, and is subject to a stamp duty of five cents, except when taken in suits of legal proceedings.

Certificates of loan in which there shall appear any printed or written evidence of an amount of money to be paid on demand or at any time designated, are subject to stamp duty as Promissory Notes.

The assignment of a mortgage is subject to the same duty as that imposed upon the original instrument; that is to say, for every sum of five hundred dollars, or any fractional part thereof, of the amount secured by the mortgage, at time of its assignment, there must be affixed a stamp or stamps, denoting a duty of five cents.

When two or more persons join in the execution of an instrument, the stamps to which this instrument is liable, under the law, may be affixed and cancelled by one of the parties.

In conveyance of real estate, the law provides that the stamp affixed must answer to the value of the estate or interest conveyed.

No stamp is required on warrant of attorney accompanying a bond or note, when such bond or note has affixed thereto the stamp or stamps denoting the duty required and whenever any bond or note is secured by mortgage, but one stamp duty is required on such papers, such stamp duty being the highest rates required for such instruments, or either of them. In such case a note or memorandum of the value or denomination of the stamp affixed should be made upon the margin or in the acknowledgment of the instrument which is not stamped.
